

JOHN PAUL JONES

The Victim of a Most Distressing Accident.

KILLED WHILE ON A HUNTING TRIP.

Was Sitting in the Back Seat of a Surrey When the Gun Went Off
And Lodged a Load of Shot in a Vital Part—Missiles
Take Effect in His Neck and He Dies at New Berlin a Short Time Later—The Parents
Prostrated and Friends Shocked.

A dreadful accident occurred last evening, the news of which caused a great shock to the community owing to the popularity of the young man who so tragically suffered death, and the prominence of his parents.

John Paul Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Jones, 918 North Cleveland avenue, was killed while returning from a hunting trip, by the accidental discharge of a rifle gun.

Yesterday, Jones, accompanied by his cousin, Millard Campbell, 1353 North Cleveland avenue, went hunting. They occupied a double seated carriage, and at 6 o'clock in the evening were returning home. When three miles west of New Berlin, Campbell, who was sitting in the front seat driving, was startled by the report of Jones's gun. The latter occupied the rear seat. The stock of his rifle gun was resting on the bottom of the carriage, the muzzle pointing upward. Campbell looked around in time to see his companion leap from the carriage into the road. The gun fell out into the highway. Jones then mechanically got into the carriage again. He was bleeding from wounds on the left side of his neck. Campbell was terribly frightened, and whipping his horse into a run hurried along the road toward New Berlin, all the time shouting for a doctor. They had gone scarcely a mile when they met Dr. Steele of New Berlin, who was making a call. Campbell pulled up the horse and sprang from the carriage, telling the doctor his companion had been shot. Dr. Steele entered the carriage and hurried into New Berlin, where the injured boy was taken into the hotel. Dr. Steele telephoned to Canton for Dr. E. G. Myers, and briefly stated the particulars, advising all haste. Dr. Myers ordered a fast horse, and in company with Dr. C. E. Schilling arrived in New Berlin twenty minutes later. All that medical skill could do was done in an effort to save the boy's life, but it availed nothing, and he died while the physicians were endeavoring to stop the hemorrhages from his throat, never having regained consciousness. The boy's parents had been sent for and they arrived at his bedside a short time after he expired.

When the gun was discharged Jones had his right hand over the muzzle of the exploding barrel. He must have been leaning slightly forward, resting part of his weight upon the arm thus supported when in some unaccountable way the gun was discharged. The shot tore off the first two fingers of the right hand. A number of the leaden missiles entered the left side of the neck, perforating the wind pipe and cutting large arteries, causing profuse hemorrhages.

At 8 o'clock Arnold's ambulance was sent to New Berlin and a few hours later the lifeless body of the boy who had left his home in health and good spirits in the morning was laid upon a couch to await the last ministrations for the dead.

"Jack" Jones, as the deceased was familiarly called, was 16 years of age. He was tall and well built, seeming some years older than he really was. He was bright and full of life; a boy to bring honor to his parents. When troops were called for by President McKinley, there was no more enthusiastic young man in Canton than Jack Jones. He insisted upon going to the front to fight for the flag. He did all that a boy of his years could honorably do to join the army, but his parents would not consent to the sacrifice, owing to their boy's age. He was a brave, loyal young man, and the news of his sudden death, which almost prostrated his mother, causes intense sorrow throughout the city. Mr. and Mrs. John Danner of South Market street, the young man's grandparents are in Mt. Vernon, attending a Baptist conference. The old people doted on their grandson Jack, and the news to them will be a severe blow.

Funeral services at First Baptist church Monday afternoon at 2:30.

AN OLD RESIDENT

Passes From Earth After a Useful Life, All of Which Was Spent in Stark County.

Michael Lichtenwalter, one of the oldest residents of Stark county, died at his home, 1250 South Market street, Friday night, after an illness of but four days. Michael Lichtenwalter was born in Canton township 75 years ago. His early life was passed on a farm which consisted mostly of a wilderness which his sturdy ancestors cleared and planted in grain and the necessities of life. The boy Michael grew to be a strong young man and the time came when he owned his own farm and took unto himself a wife, who survives the husband and father. Until within the last 15 years Mr. Lichtenwalter was a typical Stark county farmer. He owned many broad acres in Pike township and amassed a considerable fortune. About 15 years ago he came to Canton and has ever since lived a retired life. Besides an aged wife the following children survive: John Calvin and William Curtis Lichtenwalter and Mrs. Helara Yant, Pike township; Mrs. Margaret E. Kloss and Mrs. Viola Branchler, Canton. Funeral services at late residence Sunday morning at 11:15 o'clock, after which the remains will be taken to Melsheimer where interment will follow services for the dead.

DEADLY BOLT

Came Out of the Heavens and Took From Earth a Well Known Marlboro Township Man.

Oliver Stonemetz, son of Samuel Stonemetz of near Marlboro, was buried yesterday at Werner church in Nimishillen township. The death of Mr. Stonemetz occurred in Dakota and the remains were brought home for burial. He was the victim of a stroke of lightning. He formerly taught school in Stark county and was well and favorably known.

WORK OF LIGHTNING.

During the recent storm lightning struck a log barn on the farm of August

Paumier near Louisville and the structure with its contents was burned to the ground. The barn contained ten loads of seed wheat, twenty loads of hay, one load of rye and various farm implements. The barn was insured for $500 and the contents for $200 in the Home Insurance Co. of Osnaburg and Nimishillen townships. Joseph Paumier, a son of August Paumier was standing under the overshoot of the barn at the time when the lightning struck the barn and immediately gave the alarm. Neighbors hurried to the scene but the fire burned so fiercely by the time they arrived that very little could be saved.

FOUGHT HIS RESCUER.

Sad Particulars of the Drowning of Homer Gross at McDonaldsville Last Week.

Particulars to the death by drowning, at McDonaldsville Friday evening, make a distressing story. Homer Gross, aged 20, was in bathing with four other boys in a pond at about 8 o'clock when he was seized with cramps and before help could reach him had gone down twice. As he rose for the second time Nelson Keech, who weighs 200 pounds, seized him and attempted to drag him to the shore, but the boy seemed to have lost his head completely and struck Keech with such force that the latter was forced to release him when he sank for the last time. The pond is about four acres in extent and eight feet deep.

The body was recovered Saturday morning by Massillonians, who, in company with J. J. Bass, who formerly lived on the farm on which the pond is situated, drove to McDonaldsville upon hearing of the accident.

SAYS HE WAS INNOCENT.

Editor Democrat:—I desire to have it known that the charge brought against me by one Philip Mattie and published in the papers recently is a false and malicious statement which I refute in the strongest terms. I went to the mine owned by Mattie, and in his absence but in the presence of other men, loaded perhaps 25 cents worth of slack, fully intending to pay for it at my earliest opportunity. As everyone knows, that is the usual way of doing at all the mines in the absence of the owners. In a few days, before seeing him, he served me a notice to settle, which, owing to absence from home, I did not receive, and was not aware of any offense until arrested by Constable Henry.

CONTRACTS

That Do Not Appear On the Minutes.

THE EXAMINERS SUGGEST

That the People Be Told What Is Going On.

A STATUTE THAT IS OBSCURE

Supplemented by a Decision of the Attorney General Led to Charges in Two Other Offices That the Examiners Mention in Their Report—Recent Decisions Change The Situation Now.

The examiners appointed by Judge McCarty to review and report concerning the annual report of the county commissioners held their findings so long that reports of sensations of various sorts got out and gained some circulation. The report was given to the public this morning and is voluminous. The examiners, Col. J. J. Clark of Canton, Frank L. Baldwin, Esq., of Massillon and the prosecuting attorney, have expended a great deal of labor on the report. Epitomized, the report shows that the county treasurer received $947,000. The folly of some of the laws governing expenditures is referred to incidentally. With reference to the conduct of the county commissioners the report says:

"In the course of our examination we find that the commissioners, for many years past, have not kept a record of contracts of work which they may let below amounts required by law to be advertised. Their journal does not show the letting of minor contracts. It has been very difficult, we may say, impossible, to trace bills, allowed and paid, back to the origin of the work for which they are rendered, and it is frequently impossible to find out what certain jobs of work actually cost the county from the records as they now appear. To illustrate: Here is a copy of a bill rendered and paid, the name of the contractor being omitted by us:

November 18, 1896.

Stark County to — Dr.
To arch and balance on two other jobs in Osnaburg township... $1,175.52

"We tried to find out where the arch belongs," and how much for that and how much for the "Two other jobs," and what they were and what they were to cost and what had been paid on them. Neither the books nor the commissioners could aid us in determining this."

This and another ambiguous bill are referred to, the examiners say, "for the purpose of showing the necessity of keeping a complete record."

The examiners say that all contracts should be let by competitive bids. They say that a contract by competitive bid was let in one instance at $2.60 per perch. Later an additional thickness of one foot was added, and the contractor got $5 per perch. Additions to contracts are also complained of. It is recommended that the commissioners order all supplies for county offices.

In the clerk's office a matter of "keeping up and continuing the alphabetical index of pending suits and living judgments" has been charged for. The report says that the clerk and his predecessors cannot be blamed for having fallen into the error, as these charges were based on an opinion given some years ago by the attorney general of the state.

The report adds: "We are glad to say that they have signified their entire willingness to reimburse the county for the moneys improperly drawn as aforesaid."

It is also reported that the county auditor and his predecessor have charged for making the report of the county commissioners. The examiners say the statutes were obscure, but a recent decision is that this cannot be charged for. The report adds that a willingness to reimburse has been freely signified.

Coroners fees are also touched upon, with a view to asserting that more inquests than necessary are held.

It is recommended that no further road work be done by the workhouse trustees, but the report rather commends than criticizes the institution under its present efficient management.

A recommendation for revisionary legislation concerning public printing is made.

The report is signed by Atlee Pomeroy, prosecuting attorney, and by J. J. Clark and Frank L. Baldwin.

AN INTERESTING LETTER.

From Elmer Markley, of Cairo, Stark County, Who Is Now On His Way to the Alaskan Gold Fields.

Dutch Harbor, Alaska, June 12.—On May 25 we left the White Star dock at Seattle at 2:40 p. m., on the Hayden Brown, and were anchored to a buoy. Left there on the 26th at 5:45 p. m. On May 28 we reached the Pacific ocean and the tug left us at 9 a. m. We had fair winds and June 1 the observations showed we were 500 miles west of Cape Flattery and 90 miles north. June 3 had a very strong wind, sailing 10 miles per hour. Observations showed that on June 4 we were half way between Cape Flattery and Dutch Harbor. June 8, good wind but very foggy indications that we will soon be in sight of land. June 9, observations showed we were 130 miles from the pass into Dutch Harbor, and we saw the first land at 9 p. m. and made Pacific waters goodby. The morning of June 11 found Bering sea very wild and we could not make a landing. The scenery is very beautiful; high mountains on both sides with no timber on them, but covered with snow and moss. We also passed a real volcano. Our ship was anchored on the night of June 11.

I am enjoying my trip extremely well and only wish for you all to be with me to behold the works of nature. June 19 we raised anchor and sailed into the harbor, and anchored again about one mile from the dock. The anchors weigh nearly three tons. The scenery is the grandest I ever saw. The stream is only a few miles wide and is divided by a mountain, causing two harbors; to the right, Dutch Harbor to the left Unalaska harbor. Two Aleutians or natives rowed up to the ship, their boat being covered with two feet and I judge nearly 30 feet long and pointed at both ends, covered with skins of animals with only two holes to sit in; they go very fast. June 18 at 9 a. m. we were rowed to the dock by the ship's lifeboat and stepped on Alaskan ground for the first time.

The town has about as many houses as Middlebranch and Oval City combined, and are mostly small frame houses about 16 by 18 feet and 10 feet high, with a few shanty houses. They have cattle, hogs, sheep and chickens, but no horses. There are some reindeer here, placed by the government, and dare not be molested. The soil is from 8 to 6 feet deep on the side and top of the hills, and as black as Ohio mud, but I think it contains a little more sand. The climate seems to be very moderate. The coldest weather last year was 10, 12 and 14 degrees above zero. There is plenty of rain and they raise some fine potatoes, but they are like Ohio mud potatoes. I am still carrying Stark county time and the difference is 5 hours and 30 minutes.

There were passengers on board our ship 66 years old and bound for the gold fields, and from all countries, Australia, South America, Europe and Africa, and nearly every state in the Union. The weather now reminds me of about the first of March.

There were three different kinds of birds following us all the way from Seattle. First, a very large one, then the size of a dove, then some the size of a bluebird, but the deep water birds will not come close to land. I also saw several large whales. ELMER MARKLEY.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

UNDER THE WHEELS.

Coroner McQuate Investigates
Two Massillon Accidents.

A PECULIAR ARREST MADE.

A Man Taken In Custody Because His Brother-in-Law Was Killed by a Train—Train Crew Detained Him—Well Known Character Killed.

Coroner McQuate was called to Massillon Sunday to investigate two deaths that occurred there as the result of walking on railroad tracks. Fred Thontz, an unmarried man aged 40 years, who resided near Youngstown Hill, had started for home in an intoxicated condition. When near home he was run down by a Ft. Wayne train and instantly killed. The trainmen of the second section of freight train No. 2 discovered the mangled remains. A brother-in-law of the dead man was arrested by the train crew and was taken to Massillon and turned over to the police and locked up. The trainmen thought the prisoner had acted suspiciously but no charge was filed against him. Coroner McQuate today investigated that phase of the unfortunate accident with the result that the prisoner was discharged from custody. It was shown that the prisoner had quarreled with a third man who was in the party and that Thontz walked away from the pair who were fighting and stepped directly in the way of the passing train. The prisoner had no connection with the death.

While investigating the Thontz case word reached the coroner that the remains of a man had been found near Millport on the C. L. & W. railway. An investigation showed that a man named Steven Williams, residing at Coxey's stone quarry, had been ground to pieces by a C. L. & W. train. The remains were scattered along the track for several hundred feet and were found by the crew of extra freight No. 6. Williams was quite a character, having called the seas for many years. During one of his cruises he was accompanied by Jesse Coxey, a son of Gen. J. S. Coxey. He had also served a number of years in the U. S. regular army. Williams was an unmarried man, aged 45 years.

HOLDS IT'S OWN.

This Is Testimony From Everywhere As Well as Canton.

Can this be so? Is it true? Are the facts garbled? Is the truth distorted? These are questions which every man and woman in Canton, suffering the torture of backache asks as they read the published accounts in newspapers about medicines which claim to cure it. Whatever the conclusion arrived at touching the truth of these cures, he can't hedge or flinch from or disprove the following, for it took place in Canton and the experiences are those of a representative citizen. Mrs. D. K. Bush, the wife of the well-known War Claims Attorney and Notary Public, who resides at No. 53 W. 7th St., says: "For over two years I was troubled by my physician for what he claimed to be kidney disease. I took medicines of various kinds obtained at drug stores that were recommended for my complaint. I suffered with severe backache and other pains far more distressing. I found no permanent relief in all that time and becoming impressed with reading notices about Doan's Kidney Pills that appeared in our papers I concluded to try them as I had many other preparations in hope of finding relief and I got a box at Durbin, Wright Co.'s drug store on Market street. I took only about one box and they did all for me that I could expect with reason, in fact they did all that a medicine could do in a complete line mine. My sister used Doan's Kidney Pills for a short time and thinks them very good also. If any lady in the city wishes to get fuller particulars of my case, I will be only too glad to tell them personally. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any lady suffering with kidney disease, so common to women of this generation. I cannot say too much for Doan's Kidney Pills.

LEG FRACTURED.

John Reese, formerly acting constable for Squire F. H. Darst, met with an accident Monday morning resulting in a fractured leg. He was riding with a friend in a buggy toward Massillon at 8 o'clock. The Inter-Urban street car had been passed twice within a short distance of Reesdurban. It was necessary to pass it a third time and in so doing the horse frightened at people who were alighting. It became unmanageable and Mr. Reese jumped, breaking his leg. He was taken to Massillon where the fracture was reduced by Dr. Hardy. Mr. Reese was then brought home.
